

A LASTING MEMORIAL

I consider Loch Lomond my lasting memorial to golf. The opportunity of designing the golf course at Loch Lomond carried with it an awesome sense of responsibility for Jay and me. It is one of the most beautiful places on earth, endowed with mature trees and breathtaking views, with the history of Scotland lingering in the stones and waters of the Loch. Visits to the course since its completion lead me to believe it will become known as one of the most outstanding in the world. Time, and the golfers who come to play, will make the final judgment.
